

HARDING SEEKS POWER TO CURB FAMINE IN FUEL

Would Check Profiteering But Let Railroads and Unions
Continue Their Fight.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

Legislation to strengthen the powers of the Federal Government to prevent profiteering and fuel famine, more rigorous prosecution of those who conspire to interfere with interstate commerce, and allow the railroads and the unions to fight it out if it takes all winter—this appeared today to be the Administration's immediate program emerging from the series of almost continuous conferences between President Harding and his advisers, of dealing with the critical industrial situation.

Unless the Administration change for the worse—such as the extension of the shipmen's strike to other classes of railroad labor—this program will be followed, it was apparent today, and the amount of legislation will be left to the determination of Congress.

It was considered doubtful whether Congress will authorize President Harding to "seize" both coal mines and railroads—legislation which he believes he should be armed with in view of the uncertainty over how long Congress will stay in session.

Looming darkly in the background of all Government plans today was the unanswered question of an extension of the shipmen's strike to include other classes of railway labor. Opinions privately voiced in labor quarters were that the maintenance of way men would soon join the strike, with the striking shipmen, following the turn down given their plea for a "basic wage" by the Railway Labor Board at Chicago. The maintenance of way men were "on the fence" as regards joining the shipmen at the outset of the strike, and the fear was general in official quarters that the rebuff at the hands of the Labor Board might result in their active and open alignment with the shipmen.

The report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, indicating that the eight-week strike of the railway shipmen has resulted in virtually 50 per cent of the locomotives of the country being in need of repairs of greater or less magnitude, emphasized the seriousness of the situation today.

The commission's report that there have been violations of the Federal boiler inspection laws by some railroads was in the hands of the Department of Justice today. Attorney General Daugherty declined to comment on it.

Peggy Hopkins Gives Charlie Chaplin Real Kiss

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce kissed Charlie Chaplin today and then told the world that it was no indication they were engaged. The comedian waited an hour before he got the smack. Both had been to Catalina Islands. Charlie came back first on a steamer. He paced the pier waiting anxiously for Peggy, who arrived later in an airplane. "We are not engaged," both hurried to explain after she had freely offered her lips that other men have paid a million dollars to kiss. Then Peggy amplified:

"He is such a dear friend, always on hand to meet me."

Fashion Dictator Says Even
When Legs Are Nice It Is Not Good.

By MARGERY REX.
Cosmopolitan News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—"Whatever is becoming to a woman makes her look smart."

That is the dictum of Paul Poiret, one of the world's greatest fashion authorities.

Poiret is the man who made women wear very tight skirts; then extremely full ones; and now, a year and a half after he said we must wear long skirts and we said we wouldn't, the results of his ukase can be seen walking up and down the avenues, so long they almost put the "white wings" in the unemployed class.

Paul Poiret is in New York for a visit of a few weeks. He is himself an interesting study in design. Cocoa brown whipcord suit, pink and white striped silk shirt, with dark brown tie knotted over the type of collar that is called song writers. He is a fellow of complexion and serious in manner. Twenty years of dreammaking, he admits, may well make any man thoughtful.

Poiret wears a wedding ring and take it from us, it does not cramp his style a bit. "If one wears handsome clothes he or she does not fear criticism or anything," he says. "There is nothing to bother one. And the clothes should be comfortable as well. Scarcely the 'Eccentric' thing is very bad because it is not a la mode. But the individual must be studied."

"Poor women often look better than rich. Rich ones may be old or ugly and poor ones young and—and—nice," Paul Poiret finally found a word to fit.

"Oh, I know people say a woman should dress this way for breakfast, that for lunch, for tea and dinner, but that is not—nice. A woman must feel a certain way about her clothes. She may have fifty dinner dresses in her cupboard, but she must choose what is—what is—convenient, you see—for her at the moment. "Clothing should be handsome and practical."

FREE STATERS

NIGHT BATTLE
Many Wounded in Fighting at Cork—Red Cross Headquarters Fired Upon.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL.
International News Service.

DUBLIN, Aug. 30.—Many soldiers were wounded in an all night battle which raged between Free Staters and irregulars at Cork. The irregulars finally were driven off. Red Cross headquarters in Cork were fired upon. Two military lorries, filled with Free State soldiers were blown up by a mine and a number were badly wounded. Irregular attacks at Tralee and Limerick were repulsed.

DUBLIN, Aug. 30.—Five rebel prisoners in the Maryborough prison were wounded by machine gun fire today when the captives mutinied and tried to storm their way to freedom. The prisoners had secretly constructed a tunnel and were trying to escape through it when they were detected by guards. The irregulars, upon being disciplined by the prison authorities, mutinied and set fire to their bedding. Then they rushed the guards of the compound where they were confined. Unable to overcome the maddened prisoners with riot sticks and pistols the guards opened fire with a machine gun. The mutineers were then overpowered and the flames were extinguished.

Lieutenant Cullen, of the Free State army, was killed when his troops were attacked from ambush at Tullamore. A Free State private was wounded. Patrick Neill, of Collooney, was taken from his home by a band of armed men and told to prepare for death. A man dressed in the garb of a priest heard Neill's confession, but was unable to give absolution, not knowing the ritual. Neill was then shot at close range, the raiders departing leaving him lying wounded on the ground.

Irregulars have become more active in the south, where a systematic series of ambushes is being carried out. An attack was made against Kinsale, but Free State troops drove off the attackers.

Children Are Victims.
BELFAST, Aug. 30.—Three children were among the victims of a new outbreak of violence here today. They were wounded by a bomb explosion. A man was shot dead.

Women Rebels Active.
DUBLIN, Aug. 30.—The military activity of women rebels is steadily increasing. Much sniping by women and a number of ambush attacks carried out by women were reported today by the Free State war ministry.

Another rumor was current here today that Eamonn de Valera was trying to make his way into Dundalk. According to this report, De Valera may contemplate flight from the country by way of the port of Dundalk.

COW STRUCK BY AUTO FOUND FAR FROM DEAD
CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 30.—Wondering form a field at Third and Booth streets late last night, a cow was struck by an automobile bearing a Delaware license tag, gave a gasp, rolled about for a few seconds and then became rigid. From all appearances the animal was dead at least that was the opinion of the autoist, and he telephoned to police headquarters. Patrol Driver Denmark and Len Miller hurried to the scene with the police patrol. A woman carrying a supply of rope with the intention of removing the carcass.

"That cow's not dead," said a youngster attracted to the scene. Then the officers produced a red lantern. The cow opened its eyes and struggled to its feet. The instinct of a bull when it sees a red flag. Miller and Denmark jumped to one side, and before they could recover from their surprise the cow had made its way to the field and went tearing like mad. A half-hour search failed to reveal any trace of it.

DEAUVILLE, Aug. 30.—The stockings craze which has become familiar on the beach of Deauville has now penetrated the Casino. Groups of newly-arrived Americans can be seen in the baccarat room of the Deauville Casino every evening debating whether the young lady playing at a nearby table or promenading from a group of spectators at one table to another is really wearing marvelously matched flesh colored silk hose or whether her limbs are sheathed in nature's tan.

The fact that in the majority of cases lack of stockings is not even noticed is ample evidence that the pioneers of this new style of evening dress are generally using the greatest care that their entire costumes are in harmony with the genuine flesh tint.

The vogue of the flesh-colored silk hosiery has made it an easy step to the entire omission of any stockings at all. Contrasts are being avoided, and the bare limbs are invariably in harmony with silver or light-colored silk slippers, as well as a soft cream or tan evening gown.

"Why not?" demanded an American girl stopping at the Hotel Normandy, when her scandalized mother objected to the adoption of the mode introduced by some of the Parisiennes at the Casino. "This is a summer resort, isn't it? And silk hose cost an average of three times as much in France as they do at home!"

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Park Benjamin Cuts Off His Children In Will Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Park Benjamin, attorney, writer, inventor, and naval authority, cut off all his five children with one dollar each, it was learned today when his will was filed for probate.

His disinherited children include his daughter Dorothy, widow of Enrico Caruso. The bulk of his estate will go to Anna Bolchi Benjamin, former governess of Mrs. Caruso, whom he adopted legally two years ago, after quarreling with his family.

His widow will derive residue of the estate for life and on her death the will gives it to the former governess.

By FRANK E. MASON.
International News Service.
PARIS, Aug. 30.—The inter-allied Reparation Commission's deliberations over Germany's request for an indemnity moratorium reached their final stage today. A decision is expected at once.

The commission met this morning to consider Germany's "last-minute proposals," telegraphed from Berlin at midnight to Herr Schroeder, the German economic expert in Paris.

Bare the meeting convened members of the commission appeared deeply pessimistic over the possibility of reconciling the divergent views of the allied powers. The positions of the various powers are as follows:

France—Willing to grant a short term moratorium on condition that Germany pledges the coal fields in the Ruhr Basin and her forests as security of payment.

England—Willing to grant Germany a long term moratorium, with a neutral third party in control of German finances to see that there is no extravagance and no attempt to evade payments.

Belgium—Willing to grant a moratorium for the balance of the present year on condition that Belgium's priority rights to indemnity in 1923 are fully secured.

Italy—Supporting the British viewpoint.
